

DESIGN CLARITY

Finding peace in the kitchen with 'Brisbane Appliance Sales'

The best of East meets West, this design demonstrates the successful combination of minimalist principles seen in traditional Japanese design with the contemporary Australian lifestyle of a typical modern family. A collaboration between 'Brisbane Appliance Sales' and 'Interiors by Darren James'; the result is a balanced, harmonious and functional kitchen through simple clean lines paired with warm earthy tones and rich wood finishes.

Simplicity and minimalism feature in both form and function in this kitchen and the result is a practical yet restrained design. At the rear of the kitchen a butler's pantry focused purely on function ensures the kitchen is kept clutter free as it houses the large Electrolux four door fridge/freezer behind sliding shoji doors.

Minimalism is not only seen in the aesthetics of this kitchen design; practicality and functionality is equally important. The selection of two side by side Electrolux E:Line ovens and a pair of matching Franke Kubus sinks offer the ability to entertain multiple guests whilst also creating a sense of balance within the space. Appliances in the Electrolux E:Line collection are designed to complement each other with clean lines, horizontal pewter-toned glass bands and stainless steel exteriors to create visual harmony. Aesthetics aside, these twin ovens with large interior capacity and pyrolytic self-cleaning function are also an integral feature.

The Electrolux Induction Cooktop lies seamlessly within the stainless steel bench top. With unrivalled cooking technology, this Maxisense induction combines the speed of gas with precise touch controls. Boasting pan detection technology and three large zones, the Maxisense cooktop allows you to place large pots across two zones, or multiple pots on a single zone. Hidden unobtrusively within the smooth texture of the gloss lacquered cabinetry, an extremely efficient and remarkably quiet Qasair under cupboard rangehood allows for optimum air extraction without intruding on the kitchen's visual appeal.

Subdued colour, texture and strong architectural design of the cabinetry provides a sense of geometric order whilst the soothing neutral palette of brown, creams and greys minimizes the feeling of clutter; this kitchen is the epitome of eastern design and its philosophy of simplicity, merged seamlessly with the modern family.
